

A close-up photograph of a field of golden oat stalks. The stalks are in various stages of maturity, with some showing the characteristic oat grain structure. The background is a soft, out-of-focus blue sky. A teal-colored rectangular overlay is positioned on the left side of the image, containing the text 'Oat Project' and a small horizontal line below it.

Oat Project

---

Land use comparison

- 90% less water
- 80% less Green House Gas Emissions
- 79% less land required
- 60% less energy required per litre of product produced